DECEMBER 7th DATE SET FOR COURT OF REVISION

Following is a record of the proceedings of the council of the Town of Wainwright at its regular meeting in the council chamber on Tuesday evening, November 16th, when all members were present.

The meeting was opened by the Mayor, who read a letter from the Council of the Town of Wainwright, dated November 2nd, 1937, and read and adopted on motion by Coun. Link, the following resolution:

A resolution was received from the Wainwright Municipal Hospital Board, explaining in some measure the cancellation of the agreement of the town with that hospital district, and on motion by Coun. Link, the Secretary was instructed to write the Municipal Hospital Board, requesting information as to what arrangement it would offer the town in place of the agreement cancelled.

The Mayor, relative to charging to the town accounts in connection with the rink, was read to council and on motion by Coun. Welch, the action of the Mayor in this matter was approved by Council.

A communication from Dr. J. Cecil Ward, relative to Lot 13 in Block 39, Plan 9452, was read to council and on motion by Coun. Welch, the Secretary was instructed to reply to the communication of Dr. Ward, with information in connection with this parcel, as submitted in the report of the Committee on Property and Assessment.

Mrs. Patricia Stevens wrote, conveying to council the gratitude of the Wainwright Public Library Association for the grant to that association, made by council at its last regular meeting.

A circular, addressed to the Mayor from Mr. W. J. Elliott, Supervisor, Schedule "B" of Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Program, was presented to council and on motion by Coun. Link, the Mayor was instructed to forward the same to the various organizations of people in town who may be interested.

Mr. H. S. C. Smart wrote council, requesting information in connection with a previous communication, written by him to council, relative to a certain frequent disturbance in the town down part of the town, this information being sought on behalf of himself and many residents, who had endorsed his former communication, and on motion by Coun. Link,

The Secretary was instructed to write Mr. Smart, informing him that the matter was taken up with the Town Solicitor some time ago, when council was advised that there is no provision under the existing Act, empowering council to stop the nuisance complained of.

On motion by Coun. Link, it was unanimously resolved that council meet as a Court of Revision on the Voters' List for the year 1938 at 7:45 o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, the 7th day of December, A.D. 1937.

On motion by Coun. Link, the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer were instructed to issue a cheque for $16.00 to the Fire Brigade in payment of services of firemen at the fire of November 10th, 1937.

On motion by Coun. Link, the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer were authorized and instructed to issue a cheque for $25.00 in favor of the Wainwright Public Library Association, being grant authorized at the last regular meeting of council, a cheque for $865.14 in favor of the Wainwright Roman Catholic Separate School District, being balance due that district under its 1937 requisition, and a cheque for $3300.00 in favor of the Wainwright School District, on account of the 1937 requisition, of that district, which payments will be included in the financial report to be submitted by the Finance Committee at the next regular meeting of council.

The Customs for Fire, Light and Utilities submitted the following report, viz:

"That a fire alarm, was attended to on November 10th at four p.m. on account of a fire outbreak at the home of Mr. McNeill, situated on the Douglas mill property. Damage done, being total loss, owing to the fact that we had some little trouble starting the fire-truck; repairs had

C.N.R. Agricultural Expert Named Judge

WAINWRIGHT, B. H. "Tommy" Devlin, western superintendent of colonization and agriculture for the Canadian National Railway and one of the outstanding livestock judges in Canada, has received three invitations to assist in the judging in Ottawa, Toronto and Chicago. He will make his first appearance at the Ottawa Winter Fair where he will judge the pure-bred Clydesdale, Percheron and Belgian classes and will also judge the heavy draught horses on halter and in teams.

Later, at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair at Toronto, Mr. Devlin will act as co-judge in the best cattle section of the National Judging Competitions, held under the auspices of the Canadian Council of Boys and Girls Club Work.

From November 27 to December 4, Mr. Devlin will officiate at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago and will judge the Clydesdale horses and also act as co-judge in the classes for draught and agricultural horses on the halter and in two, four and six-horse teams.

Motor tourists in all parts of the country found fresh cause for enthusiasm recently when it was announced that the Dominion government proposes to spend $450,000 on further construction of the Banff-Lake Louise scenic highway next year.

Only 32 miles of that highway remain to be built while the camps of crews working from the northern and southern ends of the project are only 23 miles apart.

James A. MacKinnon, M.P. for West Edmonton has announced his intention of pressing the Dominion government to complete the highway next year. As the $450,000 evidently will be inadequate, the member says he will urge that a sufficient sum should be voted to finish the road in 1938 instead of leaving a small hold-over stretch for the next year.

This means that the highway would be opened to through traffic one year earlier than would otherwise be the case.

The fact that work also is proceeding on the Big Bend stretch of the Trans-Canada highway, 400 km. being employed on this project as well as weather conditions will permit this winter, indicates that progress is being made in opening up the west to tourist traffic.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association declare that with Alberta moving ahead with hard surface projects, and opening of new scenic delights in the mountains for tourists, this province should experience a big gain in traffic next year.

Tax Revision Is Need In Alberta

"The necessity for a complete revision of the entire tax structure of Alberta is well recognized by the government," Alex Soutter, deputy minister of municipal affairs, told the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts' convention recently.

He was replying on behalf of the provincial government to resolutions passed at the annual convention of the association in Calgary on November 18-20, 1936, at Calgary, and submitted to the government for consideration.

Announce Opening Summer Resorts

MONTREAL, Que.—The opening and closing dates of Canadian National Railway Summer Hotels for the season 1938 are announced as follows:—Jaeger Park Lodge—June 16 to September 16; Minaki Lodge—June 23 to August 31; Pileux Lodge—June 27 to September 16; McMillan Lake Lodge—July 1 to August 31; Medicine Lake Lodge—July 1 to August 31; Nipigon Lodge—June 16 to September 16.

Trans-Can. Airlines Continues Training

MONTREAL, Que.—With three Lockheed 10A planes at Wainwright, training of Trans-Canada Airlines pilots is going forward. Philip G. Johnson, vice-president in charge of operations, said on his return to Montreal from an inspection trip which took him as far as the Pacific Coast, eight men are receiving instruction at present. The staff at Wainwright also includes six mechanics or air engineers, four radio technicians, four operators and dispatchers and four employees in the stores department.

The Trans-Canada Airlines now has six planes. In addition to the three at Wainwright, there are two 10A's at Vancouver in the Vancouver-Seattle passenger and mail service and a Stearman, which will ultimately be used for training pilots.

Early next year the fleet will be increased by four 14A passenger Lockheedes. Service between Vancouver and Seattle is now a matter of seven days a week, Mr. Johnson mentioned. Planes leave the United States city at 1 p.m. and take off from Vancouver at 3:45. The 150 miles are covered in 50 minutes.

Gratifying Results L.O.L. Card Party

The results of the whist drive sponsored by the local L.O.L. and I.O.B.A. in aid of the Alberta Protestant Home for Children, held last Wednesday, were very gratifying.

The ladies first prize was won by Mrs. A. Beckett; second prize by Mrs. E. Gaudet and consolation prize by Miss E. Graham.

Successful gentlemen were, Mr. J. Grant, first; Mr. R. Gaudet, second, and Mr. H. Miller, consolation.

Ticket number 65, was drawn for the door prize and Mrs. H. Pigeon was the holder of the lucky number.

Following the cards a sumptuous lunch was served by members of the L.O.B.A.

To make sure that your gifts arrive in time, arrange to mail your parcels for England as soon as possible.

Bill Stuart crid a couple of good sales last week at the Goodale and Jones sales. Prices ranged fairly high, the sold some horses bringing nearly $100 apiece.

Flying Maple Leaf On T.C.A. Planes

Formerly approved by the directors, the insignia of the Trans-Canada Airlines is ready to be fixed by the decaominal process to planes now in operation. It consists of a maple leaf within a circle 10 inches in diameter. The circle is of gold, rimmed with blue. Imposed on the leaf, which is in autumn colors, is a conventionalized bird in flight—something like the device of the Imperial Airways—and the letters T.C.A. in gold, bordered with blue and thrown up boldly by shadow. The design will be placed on the port and starboard sides of the plane's nose, forward of the pilot's cab. Miniatures will be stamped on pilots' buttons and embroidered on their caps.

Accident Victim Funeral Monday

The Rev. E. Longmore, pastor of the United Church at Irma, conducted the funeral services on Monday last for the late Mr. Jesse U. Allen, the report of whose accidental death appeared in another column.

Mr. Allen, who was 68 years of age, had been a sufferer from diabetes for the past ten years.

In addition to his wife and two daughters (Mrs. M. Chase, of Irma, and Mrs. E. Clay of Paradise Valley), five sons (all of Irma) are left to mourn, these being Clifford, Gerald, Lloyd, Maynard and Delbert. There are thirteen grand-children.

The deceased had farmed for the past 17 years in the Irma district, and was highly respected by all who knew him.

Interment took place at Irma cemetery with McLeod's parlors of Wainwright in charge of arrangements.

OBITUARY

MARGARET BURNS

Following an operation for appendicitis, the shock of which she was unable to overcome, Mrs. Margaret Burns passed away at the hospital on Friday last at the age of 18 years.

She came to the Irma district with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burns, in 1928. She is survived by her father and mother and three sisters (Rose, Rita and Molly) and three brothers (Robert, Andrew and William).

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, with Rev. P. Rickard of St. Thomas' (Ang.) church conducting the service. McLeod's parlors made the arrangements, and the bearers were Messrs. A. La-Palm, A. Dietrich, J. Bell, G. Bachlor, D. Collette and G. Leduc.

LOCAL NOTES

Mrs. T. E. Armstrong was away for a couple of days last week on a visit to her son and daughter in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Goodale and family are arranging to leave for the coast at the end of this week, following the auction of their farm effects by Bill Stuart last week.

We are glad to know that little Blodwyn Jones, of Heath, who has been a patient at the hospital for some time, has now recovered sufficiently to return to his home.

The annual kick at the National park commenced on Monday last, and will probably last for the next month or so. Quite a number of men from town have been taken on the staff for assistance in the work of demolishing the usual couple of thousand buffalo.

Town Newly-Weds Are Entertained

A very pleasant evening was spent on Wednesday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Murray when Mr. and Mrs. Hodely Abbott were guests of honor to commemorate their recent marriage.

The evening was spent in music and cards, and at the close a delightful lunch was served, during which time the recent bride was the recipient of a handsome wedding gift on behalf of those present—the members of the public and high-school staffs.

"Lloyds of London" At Elite Theatre

Here the colorful story of England's famous insurance institution is told. Along with it, a character drama that resolves itself into a love story is narrated, a story of devoted loyalty. The whole brings living flame to one boy, death and eternal glory to the other.

The fact is the famous Lord Nelson (Freddie Bartholomew) and Horatio Nelson (Douglas Scott) swear eternal friendship. As a reward for conveying a bit of news that saves Lloyds a great deal of money, Blake is taken under the wing of Angeline, autistic founder of the syndicate of brokers who guarantee shippers against loss at sea. Nelson has joined the British navy as cabin boy.

A generation passes and Blake (now Tyrone Power) is an important factor in Lloyds' history. (John Barrymore is the famous Lord Nelson) Blake's principal contribution to the growth of Lloyds is the invention of a semaphore news transmitting system. With Napoleon ravaging Europe and Nelson's fleet the lone barrier between him and England, the fact is the famous Lord Nelson (Freddie Bartholomew) and Horatio Nelson (Douglas Scott) swear eternal friendship. As a reward for conveying a bit of news that saves Lloyds a great deal of money, Blake is taken under the wing of Angeline, autistic founder of the syndicate of brokers who guarantee shippers against loss at sea. Nelson has joined the British navy as cabin boy.

Alberta Has Near West Death Rate

OTTAWA.—Canada's 1936 death toll was 106,617, according to preliminary figures published in the annual report of the National Health department recently. This represented a ratio of 9.7 per thousand of population.

The highest rate was in Prince Edward Island, 11.1, and the lowest in Saskatchewan, 6.7.

The Maritime provinces' throughout showed the highest death rate, with 11.0 for New Brunswick and 10.7 for Nova Scotia. The lowest throughout were the prairie provinces where Alberta's rate was 7.7 and that of Manitoba, 8.7.

Deaths from cancer increased from 11,156 in 1926 to 11,602. In Ontario the deaths numbered 4,438 and Quebec 2,938. Tuberculosis accounted for 6,746 deaths, and all forms of pneumonia 7,066. Fatalities from motor accidents numbered 1,277.

Former Local Boy Married at Coast

(Vancouver Sun)

The wedding took place on November 6th, at St. Mark's church, of Christina Iris, daughter of Mrs. C. Watt, 2221, Yew street, to Mr. Philip Wilfred Williams, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilkins, of Wainwright, Alta., the Rev. A. M. Tremblay officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Grace Crowther, while Mr. S. Foreman was the best man.

In addition to a large number of Vancouver friends the following former Wainwright residents were among the invited guests: Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coulson, Mr. and Mrs. V. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dickins, as well as Mr. and Mrs. J. Liddle of California.

During the signing of the register Miss Janet Garvin sang "Because."

The weather of the past week end saw the thermometer still dropping, although as we write it is brightening splendidly and without any more snow just yet the roads will quickly make good travelling.

New Wheat King From Wembley Again

TORONTO.—The Royal winter fair crowned James Sebastian of Wembley, Alta., wheat champion of the 1937 season, recognizing an unregistered sample of hard red spring wheat as the best on exhibition last week end.

Victory of Sebastian was an outstanding upset as his sample was ineligible for competition in the spring wheat class.

Another Wembley grower, Fred Peavoy, was first place in spring wheat competition and in the normal course of events, it was expected his prize wheat would be adjudged the show's best. Second in the class was Herman Trele, many-times wheat king of the Chicago fair.

The stores are now taking on quite a Christmas air with their reasonable displays and dressy windows.

You surely are wanted at the theatre tonight (Wednesday) when the W.I. will stage their big card party and dance in aid of their Child Welfare Fund. Get tickets, anyway; the cause is worthy of full support.

Big Liquor Profit For Year 1936

Total sales of the Alberta Liquor Control Board for the fiscal year ended on March 31 last totalled $7,660,708.78, according to public accounts released last week by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer.

Of the total, liquor sales amounted to $2,703,818.97.

Liquor cost $1,852,611.52 and beer cost $3,104,283.39.

Therefore, the excess of sales over costs of liquor was $1,835,096.43 and the excess of sale over costs in beer was $598,717.44, or a total excess of $2,433,813.87.

Less cost of operating expenses of the various liquor stores of $338,161.80 this left a profit of $2,165,652.07.

Hepburn Gov't. Has Nice Surplus

TORONTO.—An operating surplus of $9,313,928 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1937, is shown in public accounts for Ontario issued by the provincial treasury. A reduction in the gross debt of $33,096,185 was announced.

The surplus was forecast by Premier Hepburn at the last session of the legislature. Revenues totalled $80,458,459 and expenditures, including direct relief of $13,270,057, totalled $71,174,501.

C.N.R. LOCAL CRASHES INTO STALLED AUTOMOBILE, IRMA

On Friday morning last, as the C.N. local passenger train was pulling into Irma, an unfortunate accident occurred, whereby Mr. J. U. Allen, a farmer living south of Irma, was killed, and his son Elliott received severe injuries.

After the crash, the two men were placed in the baggage car or one train and rushed to Wainwright for medical attention, but before reaching here the elder victim of the accident passed away.

Engineer T. G. Case and Fireman W. Pullen were on engine No. 5993 pulling the train, Conductor W. A. MacDonnell being in charge.

Although having slowed up for the crossing west of Irma so as to stop at the depot there (only 300 yards further east the train crashed into the car which was stalled with its front end right on the rails.

The view of the tracks to the west of the crossing is unobstructed for quite a long distance, and it is thought that the windows of the sedan were frosted over by the severity of the weather at the time of the occurrence.

Upon arrival of the train at Wainwright, Drs. Middleton and Maynes both examined the victims, and the son was taken to the hospital for treatment. He is still suffering from legions bruises and shock, although fortunately has no broken bones; the body of his father was taken to the McLeod undertaking parlors.

The Inquest

On Monday afternoon an inquest was opened by Coroner Dr. Gordon Maynes, and with Corpl. Colett in charge the following jury was sworn in, viz: Messrs. E. L. Cook (foreman), Adams, E. Heffernan, Gunn, Maynes and Clark.

T. G. Case, sworn, deposed that he was engineer on the local passenger train known as C.N. No. 4 on November 19th, and upon arriving at Irma he whistled for the crossing west of the, and prepared for the south. It appeared to be under control and approaching slowly. He saw it about 100 yards south of the crossing, after rounding the curve. He thought that some buildings may have obscured the auto driver's vision somewhat. He was possibly 100 yards west of the crossing when he first saw the car. He thought the car was stopping. He had the sandor going, and then grabbed the whistle again. He immediately put the brakes into emergency position. The weather was a little cloudy and visibility only fair. He did everything possible of the car which was stalled in the middle of the tracks. He was stopped right on the south rail at the crossing. His whistle was blowing continuously until after the car was struck. He made an exceptionally fast stop as he was moved down for the depot stop. The car seemed to come on to the track and then stop.

Wm. O. Philion, sworn, said he was fireman of the train in the accident. His attention was drawn to something being wrong as they approached the crossing by the continuous blowing of the whistle. He jumped over to the driver's side of the engine cab, and looking through the cab curtain he saw the car rolling over into the ditch. He noticed no impact as the engine struck the car. The engineer did everything possible to stop the train. He knew nothing as to the state of the man injured. He saw them put into the baggage car and brought to Wainwright.

W. A. MacDonnell, the conductor in charge of train No. 4 on Friday last, gave evidence that he was in the rear-end coach at the time of the accident. He jumped from the train as soon as possible, at the emergency stop and ran down the wrecked auto. He found the deceased man out of the car, lying on the ground about 3 feet from the wreck. The son, Elliott, was then crawling from the wrecked car. He spoke to the deceased, but although the man moved Elliott did not speak. He had the train backed up a short way to bring the baggage car level with the bodies of the men who were then placed on stretchers and

Picture of Early American Frontier

Reminiscent in topic and treatment of "The Iron Horse" of silent screen fame, this picture presents George O'Brien as the American pioneer of the title and tells the story of his leadership seriously and with evident fidelity to historic record. Into it is woven, a romantic interest. Also present is the recently unfamiliar presentation of the Indian as an unheroic and savage menace to the white settler and, as their leader, the renegade white who kills and tortures for the joy of it.

The broad sweep of the story takes Daniel Boone into Kentucky at the head of a band of settlers, includes the establishment of Boonesboro as a stockaded community, depicts O'Brien as the pioneer by a rival of Daniel Boone in defiance with colonial authorities at Richmond, the attack upon the stockade by Indians and, ultimately, the continuing journey Westward under Boone's captaincy. Within this framework is presented the story of Boone's wooing and wedding.

The picture of "Daniel Boone" will be showing at the Elite on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Huge Sums Left In Canada By Tourists

KITCHENER, Ont.—This year it is expected nearly 21,000,000 tourists will have visited Canada, leaving in the country more than $300,000,000. Mrs. M. M. Sutherland, commissioner of the national employment commission, declared here.

Mrs. W. Milner was a tripper to the city last week to spend a day or two with her son Irvine there.

Broadcast "Canada 1937" Big Success

With the return to the air of the second series of "Canada 1937" broadcasts Imperial Tobacco brings to a coast to coast Canadian audience 45 minutes of varied radio entertainment designed to please listeners of every taste. Every evening at 10 p.m., E.S.T., "Canada 1937" links Montreal with the current news centers of Europe in Transatlantic interviews with world renowned commentators; with the Renowned Radio Reporter on a trip across Canada; with New York's Great White Way for the latest news. The musical portion of the broadcast originates in the Canadian metropolis, also the mixing-point with complete control over the entire program.

Broadcast in the Dominion over a nation-wide chain of 37 stations with weekly contacts with points as far removed as world news dictate it will readily be seen that this ambitious program involves a maze of network facilities, telephone and telegraph and allied radio facilities.

A dozen or more organizations co-ordinate their efforts in this weekly program.

The complete success of "Canada 1937" is the immediate and individual responsibility of some 250 people. In radio nearly every individual is a key-man. Lapses on the part of technicians, station operators, or errors at the originating or control points will ruin the program no matter how careful the organization.

At Montreal, where a major part of the program originates 73 persons are engaged comprising musicians, singers, music arrangers, technicians, telegraph and telephone control men, producer-writer, and announcer.

Elsewhere in Canada approximately 160 people are required mainly in technical capacities. The New York pick-up and control point requires the services of about 8 men, while London and other European links raise the personnel total to some 250.

BUGS over 10,000,000 kinds. Entomologists, which mean students of insects have calculated that there are more than 10 million different kinds of insects in the world. New varieties are being discovered every little while all over the world.

In the past half century, since scientific research has centered upon insects, we have learned that few insects are harmless, either to human beings or to the sources of food, while many of them are dangerous to human lives. Moreover, with the expansion of trade all over the world, insects travel freely and their ravages are no longer confined to one part of the globe.

I remember as a boy when the so-called "Colorado beetle," the striped potato bug, first appeared in New England. For sixty years now potato growers have had to wage war on that insect pest. Later in the East a new insect pest, the Japanese beetle, has spread so rapidly that hardly any vegetation or foliage is safe from its greedy appetite. The corn-borer, the Medley rain-caterpillar, and many other crop destroying bugs have been brought under only partial control in the regions where they have established themselves.

In 1947 a ship put into the thriving prosperous seaport of Port St. Joe, in West Florida, with a case of yellow fever on board. Within a few weeks almost the entire population of Port St. Joe was dead or dying of "yellow-jack." There were not enough men left alive to bury the dead. No count could be kept of the thousands of bodies which were buried in one great trench on the outskirts of the town. Survivors left after the epidemic. From a busy trade center Port St. Joe slipped into an obscure fishing village, and only now, after 80 years, it is beginning to come back.

The discovery that yellow fever and malaria are carried by certain varieties of mosquitoes is one of the greatest triumphs of science. Now yellow fever has been completely stamped out in North America, malaria reduced to a hundredth of its former prevalence, by draining and oiling the swamps and pools in which the species of mosquitoes used to breed which carry the germs of those diseases.

With international aviation growing, the fear that planes from parts of Asia and South America, where disease-breeding mosquitoes still flourish, may bring them to this country, is a real one. Part of man's war on insects is in guarding against such transmission of disease.

The bubonic plague, which at intervals has ravaged whole nations, is carried by fleas from one person to another. Scientists discovered that rats are the intermediary. A flea bites a plague victim, then attaches itself to a rat. Any flea that bites that rat will infect any person whom he later bites. Once that was proved, the remedy was clear. Exterminate rats, and keep them from traveling from plague-infected regions to other parts of the world.

That is why, in every seaport, one sees ships tied up to their piers with wide, circular metal shields affixed to their bows. Those are to keep rats from leaving the ship, if it came from a plague port, or from going aboard if there is plague in the port where it lies up. Rats use ships' ropes as bridges to travel between ship and shore.

All the civilized nations have adopted the same methods to prevent the spread of the plague. News of a single case occurring in any part of the world is telegraphed to all the other ports, for them to be on guard against rats carrying fleas, which in turn carry plague germs.

When the pink boll-weevil came out of Mexico and began to ruin the cotton-growers of the South, Texas prohibited cotton-growing in a strip 100 miles wide along the Mexican border. Texas Rangers see to it that nobody grows a single cotton plant in that area. All over the South the war on the cattle tick, which gives cattle "Texas fever," is being won by compulsory "dipping" of every head of cattle. Lately it has been found that deer carry the fever ticks and a war of extermination has been begun against deer in many parts of the cattle country.

In Africa, Dr. Robert Koch discovered that the Tse-tse fly, carrier of disease germs which infect cattle and horses, breeds in the bodies of crocodiles and a war of extermination is going on against crocodiles. It is only since the beginning of the present century that we have learned what every intelligent person now understands, that typhoid fever is carried from one person to another by the common house-fly. Now the whole world makes war on flies.

Some day men will find ways to exterminate the grasshoppers and chinch-bugs which wreak havoc with the grain crops of the Northwest.

We have found ways of checking the ravages of many kinds of dangerous insects—dangerous to ourselves, to our cattle or to our crops, but new and unfamiliar species are continually bringing new dangers.

Whole nations have been destroyed by insects. Modern historians are inclined to attribute the fall of the old Roman Empire to the malaria mosquitoes which bred in the Pontine marsh, as much as to the invasion of the Goths from the north. The spirit and physical resistance of the Romans had been lowered by generations of malarial miasma, making them easy victims of the invader.

The war upon insects is one in which whole nations have to take part, if victory is hoped for. No man can protect himself or his crops if everyone around him does not do his part. No amount of money is too much for a government to spend to minimize the dangers with which the insect world threatens every body.

No other white person lives on the island of Parolung, in the Solomon Islands, where Mrs. J. C. Cruickshank and her husband have an estate of 500 acres on which they produce copra. They employ forty natives on the plantation on which tropical fruit and flowers grow luxuriously.

April and May are the worst months for perfume stains on clothing, according to Miss Miriam Cooper, whose job is to gather for dry cleaners figures from all over the country on the number and variety of clothing stains.

We expect to learn more about the source of vitamins and their relation to health and disease now that the New York State Dietetic Association has decided to develop the study of this subject. One of the most interested members of the association in this comparatively new field is Dr. Emma L. Feehey, the association's president.

Few women are as thorough-going as Miss Lucy Smoot of Kansas City, Mo., who took a course in baseball in order to get a better understanding of the baseball-minded pupils in the eighth grade recreation group in the school of which she is principal. And not only did Miss Smoot, who is silver-haired, have the initiative to join the group in a special course in physical education at Columbia University, but she passed the final examination with flying colors. It seems hardly necessary to mention that she was the only woman registered for the course.

It was something of a surprise to those who remember the "Peter Pan" days of Maude Adams to hear that she is to become a professor at St. Stephen's College at Columbia, Mo. The famous stage star, who is now sixty-four, will direct the School's drama department for a trial period and may live on the campus.

Company Pumpkin Pie

One Nine Inch Pie Dish
One cup stewed and sifted pumpkin, 1 cup light brown sugar, 1 tablespoon baking molasses, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 eggs, 2 cups rich milk, ½ cup cream, plain pastry. Roll sugar and add to pumpkin with spices, molasses and salt. Mix well and add eggs one at a time, beating each egg thoroughly into mixture. Stir in milk and cream, stirring until perfectly blended. Turn into a deep pie dish lined with pastry. Put into a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for ten minutes in order to bake crust. Reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and bake forty to fifty minutes longer.

To make a fluffy pie separate whites from yolks of eggs. Beat yolks well with a dower beater and add to pumpkin and sugar and spices. Beat whites with a whisk on a platter until stiff and fold into mixture just before turning into pastry lined pie dish. Bake as usual. If you like you can add 2 teaspoons of rum with spices. Some cooks add ½ cup seeded raisins to the pumpkin mixture.

Grease your pie dish well before lining with pastry. There is less danger of a soggy crust.

Whether you use tin, heat resistant glass or oven china pie dishes be sure to place the pie on the oven rack in the center of the oven so that the circulating heat can reach the pie on all sides. If you are baking two or more pies at the same time do not place one directly under another and take care that there is room for the heat to circulate freely around the dishes.

If you like your chocolate cakes dark and rich in color use sour milk and soda. Too much soda, though, will give the cake a reddish tinge and of course a peculiar flavor.

Our Farm News Letter

Contributed by
B. Leslie Ennis, C.D.A. (Glas.) F.C.S.

FERTILIZATION IS KEY TO GARDENING

In the spring a young man's fancy turned to gardening. To tell the truth, he was not altogether following his fancy when he decided to turn his spacious back yard into a garden. His father, he was coaxed into it by his two next-door neighbors, one a Scot, the other a Slav, both of whom were gardeners who showed the rag and the produce of their gardens all winter and cooled their heels while waiting impatiently for the time when they could get their plants again. Both he and his father had been gardeners for many years, and both he and his father had been gardeners for many years, and both he and his father had been gardeners for many years.

In "The Spell of London" H. V. Morton says, "It seems a rule in certain crowded streets that the front of a house must be as grim as the face of a poker player. You must never be able to tell from the front of a house what is going on inside. But the back of the same house casts off all restraint. The back windows and the back garden are allowed to tell you almost as much as an old matron who has had ten children will tell you over her third glass of gin."

If he was to dwell between his two gardeners neighbours in amity and content, he must first of all be a young man, who may be named Legg for short, resolved to have a garden. Some time before the frost was out of the ground the two veterans sowed seeds of lettuce, cabbage and tomatoes in the starting boxes in the back of the house. Legg was duly instructed. Later on he learned how to transfer the seedlings to the hot-bed and, finally, to the cold frame for hardening before they were planted in the garden beds. By this time spring had definitely arrived and work in the three gardens proceeded apace. Unfortunately, said Legg as he related his experience to B. Leslie Ennis, the advice of the two experts was conflicting and confusing. The Scot telling him that he was watering too liberally and cultivating too deeply, the Englishman that he was erring in the other direction.

His methods being approved by neither and anxious to avoid the re-echoes of his father's advice, Legg tended his garden in a haphazard way. His neighbours had retired to sleep off the effects of their toil. Soon he ceased to cultivate his garden at all, as the demands of business left little time for his new hobby.

Spring turned to summer, and Legg's garden stuff flourished to the wonder of the experts who gazed across it at each other, with awestruck eyes, and perhaps with a wild surmise. The Leggs had enjoyed crisp lettuce and radishes of the choicest and peas of the earliest and sweetest. Now the summer vegetables, into autumn, table corn, tomatoes and cucumbers graced their board. Legg had no cause now to avoid his neighbours. "How is it," asked one, "that we seldom saw you working in your garden, and yet your stuff beats ours?" "I've never seen better tomatoes or bigger ears of sweet corn than yours. How do you explain it?" Recognizing the debt he owed these men for having forced him into gardening, Legg did not longer conceal the secret from them. "I have proved," said he, "that cultivation during the season of growth can be overdone; but the chief reason for my success as a gardener is that one night in spring, while you fellows were asleep, I applied fertilizer."

Precipitation is the limiting factor in crop production in the drier areas of southern Alberta, southern Saskatchewan and southwestern Manitoba. It is expedient therefore, that every farmer in these areas know as much as possible of the actual moisture which falls in the form of rain so that he may be able to farm most efficiently.

Rainfall records form a valuable index to crop possibilities. In general in years where the seasonal rainfall (April, May, June and July) is above normal there has been a better than average crop 1915, 1916 (ruined), 1923, 1927, 1928, 1932, 1935 (ruined). In the years which had higher than average seasonal rainfall, together with good fall moisture the previous year, there was also an exceptionally good crop (1915, 1928).

Total figures of precipitation, however, mean little in themselves; their value is determined by how the moisture comes (whether in light or heavy showers), by the temperature following a storm and by many other factors. A rain of less than one-quarter inch is of little value unless it occurs during a cool rainy spell. The value of a heavy thunderstorm or cloudburst is determined, partly, by the amount of moisture that runs off at that time.

Storms are usually very local.

The World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

"What is the reason No. 3 Northern is at such a discount in price compared with No. 1 and No. 2?" friends ask me.

"There is a misunderstanding here," I answered. "No. 3 Northern far from being at a discount, is actually selling at quite a premium on world's markets, as compared with wheat of equal quality."

On the Liverpool market, No. 3 Northern is commanding 5 1/2 cents over Australian, 11 cents over Indian, 16 cents over American Hard Red Winter, and 16 cents over Argentine wheats; demonstrating that No. 3 Northern is definitely at a premium.

We are confused, however, by the much higher premiums that are bid on world's markets for No. 1 and No. 2 Northern, the reason being that No. 1 and No. 2 are much more scarce than No. 3.

Actually, therefore, we see in front of us a revealing moving-picture of the law of supply and demand in action through the medium of the open futures' market. We see three scarce articles with eager bidding for them by Canadian and British millers, all resulting in a benefit to our producers.

The different premiums for 1, 2 and 3 Northern paid on world-wheat are reflected straight back to our Canadian producers in the prices offered at country elevators.

The following factors have tended to raise price—Rate of world shipments in excess of Broomhall's estimate—Germany and England actively buy corn—Conflict in the East becomes more serious—Japanese rice crop smaller than last year—Signs of black rust in Argentina—Flooding causes crop deterioration in Italy.

The following factors have tended to lower price—Austrian wheat crop larger than last year—Competition from cheap Danubian wheat—Canada importing South African corn—Business reversal in U.S.A.—German potato crop largest on record—Machurian soy bean crop above last year—Russia improve Argentine crop prospects.

FATIGUE

The body which is tired out is suffering from fatigue, and under such conditions the brain as well as the body desires to be excused from any further exertion. Fatigue is one of the strongest allies of germs which cause disease, because a tired body like a tired army cannot stand up to an attack with any keenness of ability to win through.

All mental and physical exercise is accomplished by the expenditure of energy. Energy is created by the body processes utilizing the food which is regularly supplied. But there is just so much energy on tap at a given time and if the expenditure outruns the supply or is called upon for too sustained an effort, a feeling of utter tiredness, which is fatigue, is bound to follow.

It is well known that germs which may cause disease, contract about the mouth and nose and no doubt in other parts of the body also, but are normally resisted from doing any damage by a well housed system which provides antibodies which hold the germs in check. When the body, however, becomes over-tired, resistance to infection is lowered and then the germs begin their advance and disease and illness may follow.

Fortunate indeed is the person whose body and brain are always equal to the demands placed upon them. Fortunate also are the persons who find it possible to arrange their lives so that utter tiredness is rarely or never experienced.

At the end of a busy day it is quite natural for a person to experience a tired feeling which produces pleasurable anticipation of rest and sleep. That is normal and healthy, but fatigue, a feeling of being utterly tired out, exposes one to risks which should be avoided if at all possible.

There are occasions in life when emergency situations arise demanding performance of duties which lead on to extreme fatigue. A decent person doesn't wait a tired horse. He gives it rest. And a wise man does not lash an already weary and tired body.

Rest is as essential as food and drink. You may think you are a super person who never tires but sooner or later that person usually pays a price for over-expenditure of energy. It is best to play safe.

AN ART SILENT
Half a century ago, in the rural districts, one of the chief points of amusement was the "Spelling Bee." The pupils in a school would arrange themselves on either side of the platform and spell the words put to them by the teacher. When one failed, he stepped down and the last one left standing, who had spelled all the words correctly, was the champion of that school.

Next, the different schools of the town would challenge one another to spell, and the one who outspelled them all was the champion of the town.

Then the town champions would meet in some convenient place, with their respective adherents, and spell for the championship of the county. It was really great sport, those spelling bees, with each town rooting for its champion. And the champions themselves were the pick of the young men and women of the district.

It seemed as if they knew how to spell every word in the dictionary "Metropolis" and "Neubachadzeza" had no terrors for them. "Idiosyncrasies" and "Hypochondria" rolled glibly from their tongues. And when a champion did miss a word and was relegated to the rear, it was generally not one of the long, hard words of the spelling book, but an easy one—a word which any schoolboy or girl could readily spell.

In one of the country spelling bees a champion who had held the title for three years, went down in defeat because he spelled "Success" incorrectly—he spelled it with but one "c".

But this erstwhile defender of the championship was not the first man who had suffered defeat because of the "way he spelled 'success'." Ever since the world began men and women have been spelling it in many other ways than the right one.

Alexander the Great, Napoleon, and Kaiser Wilhelm spelled it P-O-W-E-R. They believed in the possession of huge armies which they could wield at will, and a navy which was almost invincible, would bring them eternal success. But the armies crumbled away, and the navies, ship by ship, disappeared beneath the waves, and, too late, this great trinity of power-seekers found they had wrongly spelled "Success." A host of others whose names history fails to record have also gone down to defeat because they spelled it in the same manner. Then there are those who would spell it "Success"—F-A-M-E. The wielding of power has no fascination for them, but they crave the adulation of their fellows. Their supreme desire is that their names shall be on the lips of the multitude. They covet praise; they long for notoriety; they aspire to be known and flattered, and fawned upon by an admiring crowd. Success to them can be spelled in no other way than F-A-M-E.

Perhaps the greatest number of people who wrongly spell "Success" are those who spell it like this—S-U-C-C-E-S-S. They believe that wealth will bring them their heart's desire; that with riches all things are possible. They do not consider that in many cases money is obtained at the expense of a good name, character, and health. "Give us money," they cry, "for in that way only can we spell Success."

The man who correctly spells "SUCCESS" is the one who uses the S for Service; the U for Uprightness; the two Cs for Courage and Character; the E for Endeavor; and the two S's for Sincerity and Simplicity. That man will be the champion spellers of his time—an honor which can not be taken away from him as learned the true way to spell SUCCESS.

THE WORKERS' INCOME TAX

There seems to be a general misunderstanding about the Old Age Pension funds collected by the Social Security Act under the Federal Government under the Social Security Act. Many people are expressing surprise that money collected from workers and employers by the tax of 1 per cent from each on wages and salaries is going into the general fund of the Treasury and being used for miscellaneous Government expenses, instead of being set apart in a special fund for the purpose of paying pensions to retired workers who have paid in the money.

That, however, is precisely what the Social Security Act calls for. The Old-Age Benefit tax is specifically described in the law as an income tax. It had to be an income tax, under the Constitution, which forbids any direct tax except on incomes or inheritances. And all taxes have to go into the general revenue. When it is necessary to pay old age pensions, Congress will have to appropriate the money. There is no other legal way to get money out of the Treasury.

This is the first year of this income tax on every worker's pay. The outlook is that it will bring in a revenue to Washington of more than half a billion dollars in the calendar year. It is turning out to be just what its proponents expected it to be—a valuable source of revenue. As the tax increases every three years, it will soon be yielding two, three or four billions a year. And it will be forty years or more before Old Age Pensions under the Act will equal the taxes collected in any year. By that time, it is estimated, the taxes on wages and salaries will have yielded more than enough, above pension payments, to pay off the present National Debt.

ARE YOU IN ARREARS WITH YOUR SUBSCRIPTION?

If so, we would draw to your attention once more that all accounts in arrears of two years or more are going to be handled in for collection. This is made necessary by the increased cost of producing a newspaper and we are obliged to collect and keep our accounts up to date.

We would also direct your attention to the fact that 50c per year is added to every subscription sent in for collection. Therefore, it will save you money and annoyance if you settle your account at once with us direct instead of waiting until the matter is in a collection agency's hands. The amount is small for each individual, but multiply yours by 100 others and you can readily see that the amount means a large outstanding account to us.

WE ARE GIVING YOU A GOOD PAPER—BE FAIR WITH US AND PAY UP YOUR ACCOUNT OR CALL AT THE STAR OFFICE AND ARRANGE ABOUT IT—ED.

sion, to increase their passenger fares from the first two cents a mile, which went into effect last year, to two-and-a-half cents. The permission will probably be granted, since the one road which insisted upon the lower rate has found that higher wages and increased cost of supplies have run up operating costs to where the two-cent rate no longer pays expenses.

It is doubtful whether the increased fare will make as much difference in the volume of passenger travel as it would have done two or three years ago. The reduction in rates got great numbers of people into the habit of travelling on the railroads, and the railroads found that it paid to make travelling more comfortable by air-conditioning their trains and providing easier seats on new cars. And with bus fares also regulated by the Federal board, the railroads no longer face ruinous competition.

The whole thing is another example of the present tendency of rising prices. That was inevitable once wage rates began to rise. The problem now is how to keep the cost of living within the means of the large part of the people who have not yet had their wages increased. Whether can discover the answer to that problem deserves at least a medal, if not a monument.

CONTINUATION OF Auto Crash

put into the baggage car. Owing to the doctor being absent from Irma, he brought them to Wainwright for medical attention. He did not know the deceased had died on the way to Wainwright. He thought that the engine stoppage was the quickest possible.

L. L. Gulltner, sworn, stated that he was mail carrier at Irma, and at the time of the accident he was at the depot there awaiting the mail. As he came out of the depot he heard the terrific blowing of the engine whistle and then saw the engine hit the car and roll the wreck into the ditch. He at once told others in the depot there had been a wreck and went to the scene. He was acquainted with the deceased for the past many years and knew him to be sober and industrious. Deceased had had a car for a long time, and he thought that he would be familiar with a car. The dampness in the air might have caused frost to form on the windows of the car. He had no idea of the shape of the car or of the brakes on it. The roadway at the crossing would be icy and cause bad travelling. The roadway plainly showed skidmarks from a car; it looked as though the driver had applied the car brakes. He heard the engine whistling very loudly, continuously.

Rev. Father J. E. McGrane, gave evidence that he was outside his house, which is quite near the crossing, on the morning of the accident. He heard the engine whistle over the crossing, and was familiar with

The Verdict

The jury then retired to consider their verdict, and upon returning, the following was signed by each of them as they considered judgment in the matter:

"That the deceased, Jesse U. Allen, came to his death as the result of being a passenger in an automobile driven by his son, which stalled on a railroad crossing half a mile west of Irma, when the said auto was struck by C.N. passenger train No. 4 on the morning of November 19th last. We are of the opinion that the engine crew did all in their power to avert the fatality and that no blame can be placed upon any person."

CONTINUATION OF TOWN COUNCIL

to be made to same, and it is now considered "ok."

On motion by Coun. Lissimore, the report of the Committee on Fire, Light and Utilities was received and accepted.

The Committee on Property and Assessment submitted the following report, viz:
"That since the following improved parcels of land have been surveyed for non-payment of arrears of taxes, we recommend that the Town of Wainwright take title to same at an early date:—Lot 36, blk. 3; lot 40, blk. 4; and lot 5, blk. 3; all included in Plan 6445V; lot 13, blk. 30, Plan 6452; and all unimproved parcels as per list. (This list was attached to report—Ed.)"

On the following property we recommend that the owners be notified that we will allow them until March 31st, 1938, to pay the arrears of taxes before taking title, viz.:—Lot 19, blk. 5; lot 11, blk. 7; lot 30, blk. 31, blk. 11; N20 ft. lot 1, blk. 18; lot 4 and 5, blk. 20; lot 13, blk. 22; lot 4, blk. 23; lot 13, blk. 26; lot 18, blk. 28, all on Plan 6445V; lot 1, blk. 41, and lots 1 and 2, blk. 45, Plan 6462.

As the Town is now receiving revenue under agreements made with the owners, we recommend that the Town do not take title to the following properties as long as the present agreement is being rigidly observed, viz.:—Lots 4 and 5, blk. 4; lots 19 and 20, blk. 20; plan 6445V, 2, blk. 15; lot 13 and 17, blk. 18; lot 4 and 5, blk. 20; lot 13, blk. 22; lot 4, blk. 23; lot 13, blk. 26; lot 18, blk. 28, all on Plan 6445V; lot 1, blk. 41, and lots 1 and 2, blk. 45, Plan 6462.

On motion by Coun. Lissimore, the Police Constable was instructed to make demand upon Mr. Dawdy for payment of license fee of $100.00 after obtaining advice of the Town Solicitor in this matter.

A largely signed petition by the business men of the town was then submitted to council and, on motion by Coun. Lissimore, council resolved

WHAT DOES THE "CATERPILLAR" TRACTOR SAVE Besides Money?

DOES IT SAVE TIME?
Yes, in many ways! All-weather tread of the broad, non-slipping tracks enable you to forget about spots and start field work days-earlier. With slip eliminated, the tractor pulls extra wide tracks to speed up seedbed preparation. It goes along on top of loose soil.

DOES IT SAVE MONEY?
You know for sure that this tractor to the ground tractor will have effective draw-bar power to pull your grain combine, your chaff cutter, your corn planter, even if the weather goes against you. And the amazing endurance, economy, the "Caterpillar" Tractor is exhibiting, the world over, and the evidence that this tractor is built to stay at it, through the heaviest working schedules you have-year after year.

DOES IT HAVE BACK-ACHE?
Just get in the "Caterpillar" Tractor's deep-cushioned seat-and drive it awhile! Note that it has an unobstructed back-rest, and a place to put your legs. And you'll find the tractor's steering wheel handy to reach and easy to operate. And you'll find there's no way of knowing the satisfaction a "Caterpillar" tractor offers you until you "take it for a spin" with jobs and conditions like yours... and then actually try one out! See us NOW!

We offer "Caterpillar" Tractors to run on Diesel fuel, "tractor fuels" or gasoline in a size to fit your needs. See us now for details.

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE FOR DESSERT
Do you find that this is the hardest part of the meal to plan? Many housewives do. The main part of the dinner seems easier to plan, because usually there is fish or meat in some form, potatoes and some types of vegetables.
Canned fruit and cake or cookies may be served but this seems more like the last course at supper. There are certain desserts that the family likes particularly and there is danger of serving these too often. There are special desserts needed for special times, company coming, wash-day, Sunday dinner and all the other occasions.

I find that it is best to keep in mind the classification of desserts and vary the menu by having a desert of each type at least once a week. There are milk desserts, cereal desserts, fruit desserts, flour mixture desserts, gelatin desserts and then for very hot days and special days from deserts.

The batter of flour mixture deserts may be baked of steamed. The all important part of steamed deserts seems to be to keep up a steady volume of steam. This applies to dumplings for soup as well as steamed deserts. Have a good hot fire so that the steam can be made in quantity. Then have a pot with a tight fitting lid, so that the steam is retained. Time the cooking accurately and do not lift the lid. Steaming is advised for many types of fruit deserts, such as raspberry and dumplings. The steaming softens the fruit but retains its natural flavor.

If you haven't a steamer, stir the bowl containing the desert on a small rack in a large kettle. The lid of a lard pail with some small holes in it will make quite a good rack. Have the water come up to the bottom of the bowl and it may be necessary to add water once or twice during the steaming. The waxed paper loosely over the top of the bowl.

Why not try a steamed desert this week? The fires have to be on most of the time now, so that the fuel for this steaming need not be considered. I am giving you one dessert recipe here but I have a number of others. I do hope the men-folk and the kiddies will like them.

STEAMED APPLE PUDDING
4 to 6 apples
1 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup milk
Cut the apples into thin slices. Place in a buttered bake-dish. Sprinkle with sugar and steam until nearly tender. Mix the remaining ingredients as biscuit dough. Pour over apples. Cover and steam 25 to 30 minutes longer. Turn on a hot plate so that the apples are on the top. Serve with sugar and cream.

HEATH
Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith left to spend a couple of weeks visiting relatives in Armstrong, B.C.
Mr. Adalard Touchette is leaving this week for Cold Lake on a hunting trip.
Mrs. Spornitz returned from Edmonton where she has been staying during the illness of her brother.

Dale Carnegie 5-Minute Biographies

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People."
SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL
The Fastest Racer on Earth—300 Miles an Hour—Hunts Pirate Treasure for a Thrill!

Writing of Eddie Rickenbacker reminds me of Sir Malcolm Campbell. Sir Malcolm was a well-to-do man, a well-known figure in the office for two years and never got paid a cent. The third year he was promoted to give him a little salary. Today he is one of the directors of that world-famous firm.

He was only nineteen years old when he got the idea of selling life insurance to English newspapers. The life laws in England are much more severe than in America. Campbell soon had practically every newspaper in the kingdom signed up to a policy. And by the time he was twenty-one, he was independently wealthy. He immediately started buying motorcycles and automobiles and entering races. He has spent over fifty thousand pounds—a quarter of a million dollars—to satisfy his longing to break speed records.

And he has traveled thousands of miles looking for the perfect speed on which to make his headlong dash to death. He has been to Denmark, the Sahara Desert, South Africa and Florida. But he told me that the fastest racing track on earth is out in Utah—the salt flats that are hard and smooth as ice.

One time he was racing in Denmark where he had to go a hundred miles an hour, when—Bang!—one of his front tires shot off. It hurtled itself straight at the crowd standing along the roadway, killed a young boy, and then leaped clear over the crowd and bounced along a dizzy path for a whole mile before it came to a stop.

But Campbell's greatest adventure—and he has written a fascinating book about it—was on Cocos Island where he hunted for hidden treasure. Hidden pirate treasure! Cocos Island is one of the dreariest places on the face of the globe. There is not a single house there and you never see a human being. The natives are degenerate savages.

The Legion Notice Board

The next important event in the calendar of the Canadian Legion is the Dominion Convention to be held in Fort William, Ontario, and opens on January 31st, 1938. This date has been set so that the Convention will open shortly after the date on which, it is assumed, Parliament will re-assemble and will give the incoming executive council opportunity to prepare and present whatever programme is determined on by the convention. It might be as well to point out to all concerned that the Dominion Convention is the governing body as regards all questions of Legion policy and once this is done the Dominion Council are powerless to alter its decisions.

General Alex Ross, Dominion Postmaster, writes in his report of the Veterans' Assistance Commission will soon be in our hands and this will be carefully studied and a special committee will submit recommendations thereon to the Convention. We have spent a long time endeavouring to find a solution to this problem. Next year will either witness the realization of our hopes or, if our case is not adequately presented, it may result in a set-back.

We would like to point out, that if any member has an idea regarding any point affecting ex-service men, either regarding pensions, W.V. Allowance, or any other matter, now is the time to bring it forward so that a resolution may be introduced and forwarded between the eyes with her Fiat and they badda send for the Veterinary doctor to bring the Cow 2.

wealthy Incas. By day, they hide up in the hills. At night, when they steal down to the water's edge, they are quieter than the very shades of the green palm trees that fringe the beach. The white man's eye is not so quick enough to spy them. Spiders, and crabs, and cuttlefish, and ants make the rocks and sand a seething, crawling mass. Flies and mosquitoes infest the air. Sharks tumble about in the surrounding water.

In order to find the treasure, Sir Malcolm Campbell had to follow a small stream and look for a big rock with a crack in it. A crowbar would make the face of the rock open like a door. And there before him would be gold—pure gold—millions and millions of it and glittering jewels. The wealth of Aladdin.

Well, Campbell followed every little stream he could find. He even followed some that were dried up directions. The fire was roaring down upon them. They were in danger of being roasted alive. So they began a mad, wild, pell-mell dash through the jungle, racing against a horrible death.

Finally, gasping for breath, blackened by smoke and scorched by flame, they flung themselves on the beach. Hundreds of acres of jungle were on fire and the flames lit up the sky with a burning red glow. It grew so hot that for a while they thought they would be driven into the sea where dozens of man-eating sharks were waiting for them. But the palm trees were so green their lives were saved.

After three tantalizing weeks of treasure-hunting, all Sir Malcolm Campbell had to show for his search for pirates' gold was a pair of bloody trousers and a blistered back. He looked more like a convict than a wealthy English gentleman. He was eager to go home. But he told me that he is going back to Cocos Island. The day was raining as any treasure there, he will get it. "You know," he said in his quiet voice, "half way around the world for a little adventure."

SECOND INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle L ranch to find his father-in-law and sister forced at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison.

"Oh, mother in particular," grunted Spud, "you're the one who's gonna open that government land along the Kleopatra river up north. The paper here says the final date of opening ain't been decided on yet, but that it's probably be the fifteenth of next month."

"Where there's gonna be a wild scramble over it. There's a lot of powerful good range up there and humans are funny about free land. Go just crazy over it as though it was gold. Here's a long article about it by George Arthur. Reckon if the editor of this newspaper up at Vaseo knew Arthur like we folks know him, he'd never have printed it."

"Arthur claims it'll shore boom this range. Says a lot of cattlemen Cinder," growled Dillon. "What'll it be?"

"Bourbon," announced the puncher rocking up to the bar. "Blue, with yuh and Loyale, both one with me!"

Dakota shook his head. "Thanks. We just turned Spud down on the same offer."

Cinder Alton shrugged. "Okay! Lots of fellers don't care for liquor before noon. Me, I'm different. Any time to drink, time to me." And again he smiled that crooked, twisted smile.

When Alton finished his drink he turned, leaning his shoulder against the bar, looking a negligent heel over the bar rail. As he rolled and licked a cigarette, his eye rested steadily upon Slim. "Don't know where the Half Diamond B could pick up a new foreman, do yuh, Loyale?" he asked. "We lost Rango Deale last night."

"Naw!" exploded Spud Dillon before Slim could answer. "Yuh don't mean it? How did it happen, Cinder?"

"Stopped a slug. It broke Rango's neck, clean as a whistle."

PICOBAC

"Yuh ain't got long," reminded Spud. Alton dropped his gun, shrugged and laughed. "I didn't think yuh had the nerve to tell me that, Slim. I observed, 'knowin' all the time of course, that yuh're signin' yore death warrant."

"Yuh're thinkin' is plumb outa order," observed Spud sturdily. "I don't scare worth a whoop. From now on, what I told Sarg and Leo Brockwell goes for their whole ganged outfit. None of yuh are wanted in this saloon. Next of yuh to show in here, I meet with a sawed-off shotgun. Now, rattle yore hocks."

Again Alton shrugged, then sauntered to the door and out. Without a backward look, he crossed the street swinging into his saddle and rode off. Spud Dillon replaced his weapon on a shelf behind his bar. "Gimme his guns, Dakota," drawled Spud.

"I wanta keep 'em as souvenirs— souvenirs of the time that ole Spud Dillon got the best one of the wickedest gun-slingers in this neck of the woods."

Dakota snickered gravely and was about to pick the weapon up, when Jigger Starbuck stepped into the place. His cold eyes flickered around and saw Alton's guns.

"Yuh fellers seem to be rubbin' the Half Diamond B boys around pretty heavy," he observed. "What's this I hear about yuh pluggin' Rango Deale last night, Loyale?"

"News to me," answered Slim. "I ain't seen Rango Deale since I got home. An'," he added pointedly, "I ain't shot a gun either. Yuh notice I ain't even packin' any. Yet Cinder Alton flipped his guns just now with the intention of killin' me. He would have to except that Spud disarranged him."

"Now lemme tell yuh somethin' Starbuck. I got my eyes open at last. Certain folks railroaded me to prison for somethin' I never done. An' me gettin' a parole they never figured on, arrived back home before they thought I would. For some reason they seem damned anxious to put me outa the way."

"Last night they tried it; only it happened that Roy O'Brien was wearin' this hat an' ridin' my gray horse. Rango Deale tackled Roy. Thinkin' it was me. When he found out it wasn't, he was so sore he took a shot at Roy plumb in the head. In my hat. Roy bent him to the next."

Slim's face had grown cold and flinty. There was the set of unalterable decision about his lips. "I'm carryin' my guns all the time from now on, Starbuck. I'm carryin' 'em to use 'em. No more do I run around like a fool, unable to defend myself an' lettin' good men take over my scrap."

"The first son-of-a-goat who makes a pass at his gun in front of me, I'm rookin' off. An' if yuh come after me for defendin' my own life, I rock yuh, too. To hell with yuh an' yore crooked law that works only one way! I'm through playin' the goat."

Dakota nodded quietly to this. "I been advisin' Slim to steer clear of trouble, Starbuck. I'm put in. 'But what happened just now shows me that he's up agin a pack of yellow polecats who are willing to shoot him even if he is unarmed. What he just said goes for me, too. I'm backin' Slim's play every turn of the trail."

"There's five more boys out at the Circle L who are gonna back it the same way. Less'n yuh see that Slim gets the protection he's entitled to, this county is gonna buy a shorliff. That's plain talk, but every word of it is gospel."

For some time Starbuck was silent, his face unreadable. "I could arrest both of yuh for that kind of talk," he observed presently.

Dakota laughed sarcastically. "Try it, an' yuh go outa here on a board. Funny yuh're allus talkin' about arrestin' Slim or me. Yuh put in a hole exert some of yore precious authority on that Brockwell gang? Why don't yuh trail along after Cinder Alton an' throw him in the jug for a time? He tried to start the argument in here."

"Yuh can't tell me my business,"

SOUP WHEN ITS CHILLY

It's cold outdoors. The children romp in from school. The men come from work. All are hungry. Serve soup—rich and hot. It is warming, nourishing, and healthful. Some soups are almost whole meals in themselves. Those containing potatoes, milk and dried Lima beans are both nourishing and economical—and this means a lot today. Try the following recipes if you wish to serve really good soups:

Lima and Tomato Soup
3 cups cooked Lima
2 stalks celery
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper

1½ cups cooked, strained tomatoes
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
3 pints water
2 slices onion

Put the Limas, water, onion, and celery in a saucepan; simmer 30 minutes, then rub through a coarse sieve. Melt the butter, add flour, stir until smooth, add tomatoes and stir until hot, then add Lima mixture, green pepper and seasoning. Serve with crisp crackers.

Savory Lima Soup
2 cups cooked, dried Lima
4 cups or 1 quart milk
2 tablespoons chopped carrot
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 slices onion
2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Put Lima through food chopper. Heat milk in double boiler, add Lima. Heat fat in frying pan; add onion and carrot and cook 5 minutes. Add to hot mixture, cook 10 minutes, then strain. Add salt, pepper and parsley.

snapped Starbuck.

"Okey," shrugged Dakota. "An' yuh can't tell Slim an' me ours. We have kept faith with yuh, so far, but yuh ain't returned the compliment. From here on out, the Circle L rides its own trail in its own way. 'No trespassing' signs are hangin' on every one of us. Cmon, Slim; I just want to see yuh go back to yore door. Reckon he's added for his office."

Slim nodded to Spud and Joe Rooney, but walked past Jigger Starbuck as though he did not exist. Dakota followed suit to the letter.

"But my dear man," expostulated George Arthur, rubbing his thin hands together as he paced back and forth across the narrow width of his office. "Don't you understand that I cannot transfer the mortgage on Miss Hall's property to you without her consent? It would not be regular—not at all regular. Besides I wish to hold that mortgage myself."

"Oh yeah?" drawled Slim. "That's kinda funny. If yuh're so satisfied to hold the mortgage, why in hell are yuh pressin' Miss Hall for the money? Can it be that what yuh want is the ranch and not the money?"

The lawyer's pale eyes narrowed. "My affairs are my own," he snapped. "Definitely and finally, that mortgage is not for sale. Good day, gentlemen." He went to the door and held it open.

Slim laughed coldly as he stepped out. "Yuh deludn' yoreself, Arthur. Yuh shogor to steal the Dot H ranch. Yuh'll never do it. An' the next time yuh hit Miss Hall up the money, she'll surprise yuh by handin' it over. Cmon Dakota, I'm sick of talkin' to sidewinders and polecats. Let's ride an' get some fresh air."

George Arthur watched them until they had disappeared, joggling easily out of town. His thin lips were writhing with analgesia, his hands clenching and unclenching. He saw Jigger Starbuck slouching across to his office and hailed him.

"Somebody to See You!"

IF EVERYBODY WITH SOMETHING TO INTEREST YOU SHOULD COME & RING YOUR BELL, WHAT A NUISANCE IT WOULD BE. THINK OF THE SWARMING, JOSTLING CROWD; THE STAMPING OF FEET ON PORCH & CARPETS.

Every day we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up the whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in a way that is most considerate of your privacy and your convenience. They advertise in The Wainwright Star!

These callers don't clutter up your door steps or fill your mail boxes with large, untidy circulars. They don't annoy you by having their merchandise advertised in circulars which are thrown carelessly on your porch or in your automobile. They are considerate of your patience and your time. Instead, they gain your good-will, friendship, and respect by advertising in The Wainwright Star!

In this way, we have only to listen to those whom you know have something to interest you. They make it short, too, so you can gather quickly just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all in a very few minutes, and without noise and confusion or annoyance.

In fairness to yourself, look over all the advertisements in The Star every week. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.

Poison in the Air: By Heinz Liepmann: (Toronto: Lippincott's). Price, $3.00.
An Encyclopedia of Pacifism: Edited by Aldous Huxley: (Toronto: Macmillan's). Price, 15 cents. 128 pages.
Prelude to Peace: By Henry A. Atkinson: (Toronto: Macmillan's). Price, $3.00.
England Expects Every American to Do His Duty: By Quincy Howe: (Toronto: Macmillan's). Price, $2.25.
Your Child Faces War: By Nelson Antrim Crawford: (Toronto: Longmans). Price, $1.50.

Nearly twenty years have passed since that first Armistice Day when the "war to end war" came to its end. But civilization has learned little. Today it trembles once again on the edge of an abyss. The situations in Spain, Ethiopia and China are far from reassuring and seem to testify to the invincible stupidity of mankind.

But if another world-war occurs, what will it be like? Will it leave anything behind worth salvaging? Heinz Liepmann, a German now in exile, whose father was killed in the last war, believes not. In "Poison in the Air" he professes to give us the latest and most confidential information concerning the recent development in poison gas gleaned from persons whose names he does not divulge but who stand high in the military circles of various countries. He tells us about gases which cause acute irritation of the lungs, tear-gases, paralyzing gases, blue cross gases, yellow cross gases which blister and thernite which causes and unquenchable flame.

According to him, the argument that countries will not use poison gas because it is so unmanageable and apt to blow back on their own troops no longer holds since now huge quantities of gas can be dropped from aeroplanes on cities far removed from the scenes of actual trench-fighting. Certain of these gases will permeate any gas-mask; gas-cellers are rendered futile by the density of the gas, and the proposals to use the Metro in Paris and the Tube in Paris as refuges will prove abortive. "There is," he says, "no adequate defence against gas. Whoever says there is, is a liar."

He also informs us that Germany whose normal consumption of arsenic is never more than 2000 to 3000 tons a year, bought recently from Sweden the entire quantity of 100,000 tons which had been stored by the Bolander Company, and contracted to take an additional 50,000 tons year by year. 50,000 tons of arsenical ores, he says suffice to make 130,000 tons of arsenate "which could transform the whole of Europe into a mortuary where neither man nor beast nor plant is left alive."

Though the Treaty of Versailles decreed that Germany should cease all manufacture of poison gas, a chemist named Stoltzenberg, took out a patent as early as 1924 and numbered "D. R. P. 433622" which was described as designed to destroy "with the aid of aircraft and flame-throwers, swarms of noxious creatures." The swarms of noxious creatures, says Herr Liepmann, were to be bipeds, human beings. All this is not pleasant reading, but there you have it, including another bed-time description of microbial warfare. When the next war breaks out, the microbe-warriors will probably seek to infect us with anthrax for reasons which our author carefully enumerates.

According to Aldous Huxley, we should do nothing about it but submit. "The Encyclopedia of Pacifism" contains a large number of articles, alphabetically arranged, showing the futility of war and the advisability of non-resistance. Some of them are most challenging, but one does not like to think of civilization being wiped out without some serious, even violent effort to save it. If we are going to die from poison gas any way, perhaps we had better take a shot at somebody first. Nelson Antrim Crawford, the editor of the Household Magazine, in "Your Child Faces War", advises parents how to educate their children for peace and against war. He answers about forty questions quite suggestively and even wistfully. But if we train our children against war, and then war comes despite our efforts, what is to be the psychological effect on the children? Will they simply accept the inevitable, or will it be necessary to re-educate them for war? Perhaps, with all such training for peace, it may be well to remind them that in the Christian teaching physical death is less important than spiritual death.

Dr. Henry Atkinson has worked valiantly through the churches for peace since the inception of the World Alliance for International Friendship. In his "Prelude to Peace" he gives us a realistic study of the steps which must be taken before peace and justice can be established together with—and perhaps in consequence of—collective security. He also deals with the economic, access to raw materials, education and religion in the battle for peace. This struggle can never be achieved, he says until national sovereignty is, at least in part, surrendered.

But when will the United States wake up and make collective security a reality? Quincy Howe, head of the editorial department of Simon and Shuster in "England Expects Every American to Do His Duty", would harden the isolationist fibre against any next steps which President Roosevelt may take, and especially warns the people of the great Republic that all this "Anglo-American understanding" talk is just a smoke-screen behind which perfidious England seeks to get the United States to do its dirty work for it, while it prepares to capture American trade, thus cashing in on the profits. Canadians ought to read this book if only to understand one type of mentality still common in the United States. Mr. Boake Carter would probably applaud heartily. It is too bad that we Britishers are so smart and tricky, and that those Anglo-American traditions of freedom which—some of us suspect—are still needed in this crazy world are so slight that collaboration seems to be impossible. However, it is well for us to know what some of them think about us, and we can only pray to our Viking gods that they may wake up sometime before the end of the end.

STUFFED BAKED APPLES

Choose eight red apples. See that the apples are of uniform size. Without breaking through the skin, scoop out the core from the stem end, leaving a cavity in the apple. Fill the cavity with raisins and broken walnut meats.

Four over the apples one cup of sugar and add one cup water to the pan. Bake slowly in the oven so that the apples will stay whole. When the apples are cooked remove them from the pan. Return the pan with syrup to the top of the stove. Boil down to a light jelly. With a spoon, place it over the top of the apples. These apples may be served hot or cold.

VINCENT'S ANGINA

Vincent's angina, or trench mouth, is an infectious disease. It begins with a dryness and burning of the gums or with a sore throat. If the infection is in the gums they become swollen, tender, an angry red and frequently show raw bleeding surfaces round the teeth. In the acute stage there is fever with headache and listlessness.

The infection may be conveyed directly by kissing, by droplets coughed or spoken into the air or by the use of cups and eating utensils that have been already used by an infected person and have not been properly sterilized.

The infection is especially liable to take hold in a mouth that has been neglected. Jagged teeth, overhanging fillings, pyorrhea pockets create ideal conditions for the germs. It is very probable too that the gums are made more susceptible to this infection by a diet deficient in Vitamin C.

It would be more easy to prevent the spread of infection if we knew more about the relative importance of the causes of infection. Some people believe that the disease is mainly spread by the cups and glasses used in soda water fountains, lunch counters and restaurants. Others, knowing how very numerous are the places where glasses are improperly washed and never sterilized at all, argue that if this method of spreading the disease were important everyone would have it by now.

Research is badly needed. In the meantime the glass rinsed in warm dirty water should be regarded as dangerous. The public could do a great deal to improve conditions if every customer would ask, before ordering a drink: "How has that glass been sterilized?" Until we feel able to afford trained sanitarians to do our inspecting for us, we must do our own—or take the consequences.

Protect Your Hard-Earned Savings

THROUGHOUT Canada, life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries should realize the menace to their own and the national welfare that lies in extreme and unjust legislation.

These policyholders represent 50 per cent. of the electors—federal and provincial. Through the institution of life insurance, they have so pooled their resources that their collective interest can withstand attacks that would bring financial disaster to the individual.

Despite war, epidemic, panic and depression, life insurance has met every policy obligation promptly and in full.

Despite the financial disturbance of the past six years, it has distributed, and continues to distribute, to its policyholders and beneficiaries, over $500,000 every working day.

Seventy-five per cent. of this money has been, and continues to be, paid to living policyholders; the balance to beneficiaries.

Life insurance is the greatest co-operative business in Canada. No one doubts its strength and stability. No one questions the prudent and intelligent direction of its affairs.

It is the guardian of the hard-earned savings of 3,500,000 men and women in all walks of life.

Today there are forces in Canada that menace the welfare of these people. These forces would penalize their savings and impair their investments through legislation which cancels public and private debts—regardless of the debtor's ability to pay—and which tends to destroy the ownership of public and private property.

The interests of life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries—as of all other citizens whose savings are invested in one form or another in Canada—demand that promises to pay be observed, when the debtor is able to pay; that hard-earned savings which safeguard the homes and families of the Dominion be protected from unjust legislation.

Corrects Statement Re Oil Taxes

Half truths and wrong conclusions, reply representatives of the oil industry in answer to claims of the head of a well-known financial agency who recently claimed that fuel oil prices in a certain territory had been exorbitantly high.

In his article he claimed that with a recent advance in price, fuel oil had been lifted 27 per cent in three years.

The reply was that his views, as he expressed them, gave an entirely erroneous survey of conditions in the oil industry.

To keep the record straight the oil industry turned to a United States government record for May which showed that commodities covered in the general classification of "fuel and lighting" are 77.2 per cent of the 1926 index of 100. All commodities are given a rating of 87.4. The index for the price of petroleum products is only 60.9 per cent of the 1926 figure, the lowest of all industrial products listed.

Bituminous coal, which was mentioned in the article, is 98.5 and anthracite coal is 74.2. Gas and electricity with both of which comparisons were made unfavorably to oil, are actually in excess of 80.
